ABOUT ME

I'm Petros Skoulas, a junior front-end web developer from Greece with a passion for crafting engaging and aesthetically pleasing web experiences. In 2020, I completed my BSc (Hons) in Information Technology with a specialization in Software Development from Deree - The American College of Greece, eager to immerse myself in the world of web development. Having built a strong foundation in fundamental technologies such as HTML, CSS, and JavaScript, I committed to a journey of continuous learning, ensuring I remain adaptable to the rapid advancements of the ever-changing landscape of web technologies. As I delved deeper into web development, I embraced React, a leading front-end library, which has significantly boosted my expertise and adaptability in today's dynamic tech landscape. Additionally, I have built a strong foundation of expertise in WordPress theme development, recognizing its significance in addressing broader real-world market demands. With a commitment to continuous learning and growth, I embrace each challenge as an opportunity to grow and further enhance my expertise.
